

2010 ICCG events

International Workshop on the Challenge of Financing Low-Carbon Growth

ICCG, Island of San Giorgio
Maggiore, Venice, Italy
Organisers: ICCG, FEEM and CPI

15th-16th
APRIL

International Workshop on Institutions for Climate Governance

ICCG, Island of San Giorgio
Maggiore, Venice, Italy
Organisers: ICCG, FEEM, CMCC and the Harvard Project on International Climate Agreements

20th-21st
MAY

European Summer School on Climate Change Negotiations

VIU, Island of San Servolo, Venice, Italy
Organisers: ICCG, EAERE, FEEM and VIU

4th-10th
JULY

Summer School on International and European Law and Policy on Investment and Environment: the Energy Challenge

Island of San Servolo, Venice, Italy
Organisers: ICCG, University of Padua and Ca' Foscari University of Venice

19th-25th
SEPTEMBER

Researchers' Night

Venice, Italy
Organisers: ICCG, FEEM, Ca' Foscari University of Venice, IUAV, Municipality of Venice and Unioncamere Veneto

24th
SEPTEMBER

European Dialogue on Climate and Energy

ICCG, Island of San Giorgio
Maggiore, Venice, Italy
Organisers: ICCG, FEEM, CEPS and IDDRI

25th-26th
OCTOBER

2010

ICCG International Center for Climate Governance

Island of San Giorgio Maggiore
30124 Venice, Italy

Phone: +39 041 2700411
Fax: +39 041 2700413

info@iccgov.org
www.iccgov.org

INTERNATIONAL CENTER FOR CLIMATE GOVERNANCE

NEW PERSPECTIVES ON THE
MULTIDISCIPLINARY DIMENSION OF CLIMATE CHANGE

LOOKING FORWARD TO A NEW APPROACH TO CLIMATE POLICY

who we are

The "International Center for Climate Governance" (ICCG) is a joint initiative of the Fondazione Eni Enrico Mattei (FEEM) and the Fondazione Giorgio Cini, which focuses its research activities on the design of climate policy and related governing institutions.

Located on the Island of San Giorgio Maggiore, in front of Saint Mark's Square in Venice, the ICCG gathers researchers in economics and political sciences who explore the interdependencies between the economic, social, cultural, religious and political aspects of climate governance.

Fully interdisciplinary and open to the interaction and cooperation between different worlds and cultures, the ICCG favours dialogues and negotiations to achieve equitable and effective decisions on climate policy.

The ICCG promotes initiatives at the sectoral, regional, national, and international level designed to reduce greenhouse gas emissions in the atmosphere and to facilitate the adaptation of economic and environmental systems, particularly in developing countries, to the changing climate patterns.

The activities for the three years 2009-2011 have been funded by the Italian Ministry for the Environment, Land and Sea through the cooperation between ICCG and the Euro-Mediterranean Centre for Climate Change.

aims

The ICCG aims to gather international researchers and academics, climate change policy experts, negotiators, representatives of international and national institutions, environmental and social NGOs to discuss the political and economic dimension of climate change. The ICCG aims at assessing the long-term impacts of climate change on world socio-economic systems and at designing policy solutions to minimise these impacts. In particular, the ICCG focuses on international negotiations on climate policy and the definition of models of governance.

The activities of the ICCG are developed through the organisation of events of international relevance, workshops, lectures, policy meetings, and the implementation of training courses targeted to researchers and government officials from developing countries. The events are characterised by interdisciplinary and intercultural participation, with the contributions of experts in different disciplines from various world regions. Policy briefs, workshop reports, discussion papers, proposals to enhance the effectiveness of climate policy, declarations and statements from the policy and business world will be the typical output of the International Center for Climate Governance in the coming years.

how to reach the ICCG

